After 25 years, political prisoner, Marilyn Buck is scheduled to get out of prison later this year. Jailed for actions in solidarity with the Black liberation and anti-war movements, Marilyn has been a voice for peace, justice and human rights during her entire incarceration. An anti-racist, feminist, poet and teacher, Marilyn Buck represents the passion and endurance of women freedom fighters and political prisoners everywhere. ★ Sparks Fly 2010 honors and celebrates Marilyn, and all women political prisoners known to us, (and those whose names we do not know), in prisons around the world. They include: MOVE sisters, Debbie Sims Africa, Janet Holloway Africa, Janine Phillips Africa • Ana Lucia Gelabert • Lori Berenson • Aung San Su Ky • Lynne Stewart !Presente!
